GET TO KNOW SOME OF OUR PEOPLE

Eleanor Wright,
Head of Marketing

How long have you been at Henry Riley?

Nine years.

What does a typical day look like for you?

In Marketing, we work across the marketing mix which means that my days are fairly varied. We are responsible for internal and external communications and branding, raising the profile of the business, bid management amongst other things. My duties are to lead the development and implementation of all marketing activities across Henry Riley and its sister companies.

Have you been in any other roles during your time here?

I have always worked in the Marketing department, although have worked my way up over the years after starting as a Marketing Assistant.

What qualifications have you gained or courses have you done whilst being employed by Henry Riley?

I've completed my CIM Professional Diploma in Marketing and other training on software such as the Adobe suite, presentation and management training.

What do you enjoy most about your job?

I'd say the variety, there are also lots of opportunities to get creative both in terms of finding solutions to problems and also in terms of branding/design which I enjoy.

As Henry Riley is celebrating 130 years in business this year. Is there anything you'd like to say about working for a company with such history, or a memory that will always make you fond of your time here so far?

I have so many good and funny memories of my time working at Henry Riley. I have always enjoyed the 'family-feel' that you get some somewhere like Riley's where people have worked with each other for a long time, and know each other well both professionally and personally. This year has made that even more evident, I miss the friendly atmosphere the office brings.

What's your favourite thing to do when you're not at work?

I love planning and going on holidays (who doesn't!), and I especially enjoy trips which involve exploring and moving around a country as opposed to staying in one spot. On a more every day level, it is cliché, but love spending time with friends and family especially if delicious food and drink are involved.
